DIARY NOTES

30 April 1963

1. At the Executive Committee Meeting this morning John Bross announced that Bob Amory had told him that [REDACTED] was looking into the intelligence community budgets for the President's Board. General Carter said no one in the Agency had heard anything about this and asked John to find out more about it.

2. Mr. Kirkpatrick advised me that he was signing off on the purchase of an IBM 7090 computer for the Automatic Data Processing Staff. I also agreed with Kirk that [REDACTED] would put on his briefing of our computer problem at the Executive Committee Meeting on Thursday, 2 May. (Joe has been notified.)

3. I met with Jim Garrison, [REDACTED] to talk about our stock procurement fund and paramilitary stockage objectives. I think we have a reasonably good presentation which we can now make on this; and I am going to appear at the Financial Policy and Budget Committee tomorrow at 1500 hours for this purpose.

6. [REDACTED] telephoned to say that Jim Cunningham, of OSA, had called him about the water situation [REDACTED]. Apparently it is impossible to get any well diggers in there until mid-June. I told Frank I would look into this, and I called Jim Garrison. Jim wasn't sure of the status, and I asked him to look into it and report back to me. I told him if we were unable to get well diggers before mid-June to consider the possibility of flying in a portable water filter in the interim.

8. [REDACTED] a former [REDACTED] employee, was in to see me--I am not sure for what reason. She said that there was something in her personnel file which I had put there many, many years ago, and she wanted to explain it to me. This had to do with some unexplained absence from work. I told her that I had no recollection of this incident and assured her that, whether or not anything was in her personnel file, it had not affected her in any way. She also had with her copies of 72 "round-ups" she had done in [REDACTED] in 1945 (two years before [REDACTED]). These were round-ups of world reaction to the organization of the United Nations written during the San Francisco meeting to discuss this subject. She thought these were very valuable and perhaps, since the 20th anniversary of the United Nations would be coming up in 1965, they might be particularly interesting at about that time and something special might be done in the way of presenting them to the United Nations, etc.
